A Confederate in the Attic – or Not: My Mysterious Great Grandfather Charles T. Drummond

Part One

By Jerome Drummond

Some ancestors are more difficult to trace than others and it is often the case that urban ancestors are more difficult than rural ones because of the transient nature of urban employment. I can adequately describe how each of my ancestors came to the United States (and Canada) with the exception of my great grandfather Charles Drummond. He has been a tough nut to crack.

When I started looking for him in the early 1980s, searching through records involved driving to archives, paying for motels and cranking microfilm endlessly. I used to think of how similar it was to a gambling addiction – working the one-armed bandit for hours to find that five minutes of ecstasy which would spur one on to another twelve-hour session. I would show up at Allen County Library at opening, get in the line that any morning was already twenty briefcase lugging people long, and would leave at closing taking only a half-hour for lunch.

Family Information, Death Certificates and Cemetery Records

My father John was born one week after his grandfather Charles died in 1912 and never passed on to me any stories that he might have heard about his grandfather. He had his own notions concerning the Drummonds but these he had gleaned from books about "Scottish clans", and as Drummond is mostly a Scottish name, he assumed that such information applied to us. Most genealogies start with living relatives and their stories and work backwards from there; the stories may be biased, mangled, wholly untrue or mistaken, but they can never be ignored. What was true was that my father was saying the family was Scottish.

My father died when I was nineteen before I had assumed the age when a parent feels comfortable to tell their child of their past and before the child has the presence of mind to ask the parent questions about the family.

The only living relative of my father from his generation was his sister. She at least knew that her grandparents were named Charles and Julia Drummond, and she had in her files original death certificates for both, although the certificate for Charles was missing some details one would have expected to find.* It was her belief that Charles came from Glasgow, Scotland and Julia from Dublin, Ireland. She also had the original deed for the family burial plot in Mt. Elliott Cemetery in Detroit, purchased by Charles Drummond in 1888, as well as a map of the plot showing who was buried in it, the burial dates, and the position of each burial relative to the others. The names listed under the map in chronological order of burial were Drummonds and Murphys, but who the Murphys might be Aunt Rosemary couldn't say. Julia's death certificate listed her father's surname as Deegan and her mother's surname as McKenneth. I would later find as you will see that Julia had been married to a William Murphy before she met Charles Drummond.

* I later discovered that the Detroit death certificate was only for burial in Detroit and was generated by the Detroit undertaker. A much more complete death certificate was available from Cook County as Charles had died in Chicago. The informant was his son James with whom he lived. James gave "Charles" as the name for Charles' father, and simply "Drummond" for the name of Charles' mother.

Deegan is the modern conventional spelling of the surname. As Julia was illiterate her surname can appear as Deegan, Daegan, Dugan, Deigan, Degan, and Diggin.

So the important persons in this article are:

William Murphy (1) (c. 1845 – 1862) + Julia Deegan (c. 1845 – 1907)
Charles Drummond from Scotland (2) (c. 1845 – 1912) + Julia Deegan (c. 1845 – 1907)
Joseph A. Drummond (1872 – 1938) and two of his children:
John G. Drummond (1912 – 1976) Rosemary Drummond (1915 – 2001)

The Federal Census

In the years before the internet the Federal Decennial Census was the national genealogical record and the easiest for me to access, so with Aunt Rosemary's information I approached the Federal Census first thing. At that time the 1910 census was the latest one released and searchable through its Soundex Cards on microfilm at the Harlan Hatcher Microform Reading Room at the University of Michigan.

I was able to find Charles and his wife Julia living in Detroit in 1880 with three children: John P. Murphy, James Drummond, and Joseph Drummond, this last being my grandfather. John P. Murphy was listed as the step-son of Charles Drummond. This family was living at 223 Franklin Street in the industrial waterfront area known as the Potomac, today called Rivertown. Charles was a boilermaker. Both Charles and Julia are listed as born in Ireland.

1900
In 1900 Charles, Julia and Joseph were living further out on the East Side of Detroit near Annunciation Roman Catholic Church (RCC). Each workday Charles and Joseph would take the electric streetcar down Jefferson to the Potomac: Charles working at the Detroit Dry Docks & Engine Works as a boilermaker and his son Joseph working at the Detroit Screw Works as a machinist. Both plants were close to the Franklin Street house and what is today the St. Aubin Marina, which was built in recent decades over the remains of the dry dock. Charles is listed as born in Scotland, a naturalized citizen, and having arrived in the US in 1864. His wife Julia is listed as born in Ireland and arriving in 1855.

By 1910 Charles is a retired widower living in Chicago in a very nice brownstone with his eldest son James and his family. He is recorded as Charles T. Drummond born in Scotland. Both sons, the one in Chicago and my grandfather Joseph in Detroit claim that Charles was born in Scotland and Julia in Ireland.

So in 1900 and 1910 Charles is listed as immigrating from Scotland with 1864 the designated year. The 1880 says he was born in Ireland.

As is clear from the official instructions for census enumerators below, information for the census could come from several sources starting with persons most likely to know accurate information and ending with any warm body that would cooperate – there is pressure on the enumerator to answer every question. As we shall see all other sources make clear that Charles would have said he was born in Scotland and likely Julia would have known that as well. If John P. Murphy, the next expected choice was asked, he may be less likely to know the birthplace of his step-father, the younger children even less so, and neighbors less than that.

> DUTIES OF ENUMERATORS
> It is by law made the duty of each enumerator, after being duly qualified as above, to visit personally each dwelling in his subdivision, and each family therein, and each individual living out of a family in any place of abode, and by inquiry made to the head of such family, or of the member hereof deemed most credible and worthy of trust, or of > such individual living out of a family, to obtain each and every item of information and all the particulars required by the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by act of April 20, 1880

> It is further provided by law that in case no person shall be found at the usual place of abode of such family, or individual living out of a family, competent to answer the inquiries made in compliance with the requirements of the act, then it shall be lawful for the enumerator to obtain the required information, as nearly as may be practicable, from the family or families, or persons or persons, living nearest to such place of abode.
> THE OBLIGATION TO GIVE INFORMATION
> It is not within the choice of any inhabitant of the United States whether he shall or shall not communicate the information required by the census law. By the fourteenth section of the act approved March 2, 1879, it is provided: "That each and every person more than twenty years of age, belonging to any family residing in any enumeration district, and in case of the absence of the heads and other members of any such family, then any agent of such family, shall be, and each of them thereby is, required, if thereto requested by the superintendent, supervisor, or enumerator, to render a true account, to the best of his or her knowledge, of every person belonging to such family in the various particulars required by law, and whoever shall willfully fail or refuse shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars."

City Directories

As Detroit has always been a major city, it was well-covered by directory publishers and as I recall I was able to access a good number of these at the Burton Historical Collection, housed in the Detroit Public Library, and the Bentley Library in Ann Arbor. I was well-rewarded for the effort and determined that Charles first appears in 1868 on the riverfront and remains in the same area until about 1892 when he moves out by Pennsylvania Avenue where he lives until 1908. He then disappears presumably to the Chicago address listed on his death certificate. So I can place Charles geographically for almost forty years. Another important result was that, although there were several Drummonds in the directories in any given year there were none that suggested a relationship to Charles outside of his own children.

Religious Records

Catholic churches in Detroit in the latter nineteenth century on the waterfront usually served Irish and German immigrants as well as the remainder of the original French habitants who had not moved to Monroe or Grosse Pointe with the coming of the Americans. As a parishioner a Catholic was supposed to attend the church that served the territory where the parishioner lived and this often corresponded to the ethnicity of the parishioner's neighborhood. I discovered the Detroit Catholic parish boundaries through that invaluable work Silas Farmer's History of Detroit and Wayne County and Early Michigan and could examine those churches that the directory address indicated. The Drummonds attended SS. Peter & Paul RCC for most of their time, an easy walk from Franklin Street. The priest there told me when I visited the church that I could access the church's records on microfilm at the Burton Historical Collection. Those records showed the activities of the Drummonds from 1867 to 1890 and revealed three children born to Charles and Julia which had not survived beyond childhood. Roman Catholic church records were kept in Latin as best as the priest knew it and Charles was typically referred to as Carolus in all entries except one in which he was referred to as Terentius (Terrence) which may be what the middle initial T in the 1910 Federal Census entry is referring to. I noted that all of the baptisms and marriages that the Drummonds attended were of people of Irish surname and involved principally Julia or other Deegans and Murphys – no Drummonds or Scots of any kind. Did this mean that Charles had no family here as the directories suggest?

A Chance Remark

Through the 1980s I spent a great deal of time recording interviews with the remaining relations of my parents' generation. Generations are quite long in my family. I was born in 1956, my father in 1912, my grandfather in 1872 and his father Charles probably in the mid-1840s. This meant no five-generations-in-one-photo opportunity! No one in the male line ever met his grandfather. As stated, my Aunt Rosemary was the only living relative of my father's generation. We were recording the story of the death of my grandfather Joseph and how my Aunt Rosemary hitchhiked from school at Eastern Michigan University (then Michigan State Normal College in 1938) to attend his sickbed when she remembered hearing that Julia (and she thought Charles) had once lived in Ypsilanti. I was stunned, as my wife and I lived in Ann Arbor at the time and my wife worked at Ypsilanti District Library!

Back to the Census

The 1870 Census revealed no Drummonds or Deegans in Ypsilanti or Detroit but a house-by-house search of the 1860 Census for Ypsilanti City revealed a Julia Murphy, married to a William Murphy, with two children: William H. Murphy and John P. Murphy. John P. matched age-wise the John P. in the 1880 Detroit Census and William H. matched one of the Murphys buried in the Mt. Elliott family plot. A further entry showed an Eliza Deegan with children Murtagh, Elizabeth and Ellen, all of which had appeared in SS. Peter & Paul RCC records at sacraments that Charles and Julia Drummond attended. I could now inform my family of our relationship to the Murphys: Charles Drummond was Julia Deegan's second husband. Julia's first husband was a William Murphy. When Charles married Julia she already came with two Murphy children, one of which was buried in the Mt. Elliott family plot.

I visited St. John the Baptist RCC on Cross Street in Ypsilanti and found that the Murphys had worshipped there; in fact the baptism of their second child William H. Murphy is recorded on the second page of the baptismal register. I discovered that Julia's husband William died in Ypsilanti in 1862. In neither Ypsilanti nor Detroit was I able to find a marriage record for Julia (Deegan) Murphy and Charles Drummond, but their eldest son James was born in Detroit in 1868 so I now had narrowed down the date to between 1862 and 1868.

Naturalization

Assuming that Charles is a Scot from Scotland it is reasonable to assume that he sounds Scottish, but the respondent in the 1880 Federal Census thought he was from Ireland; did he sound Irish?

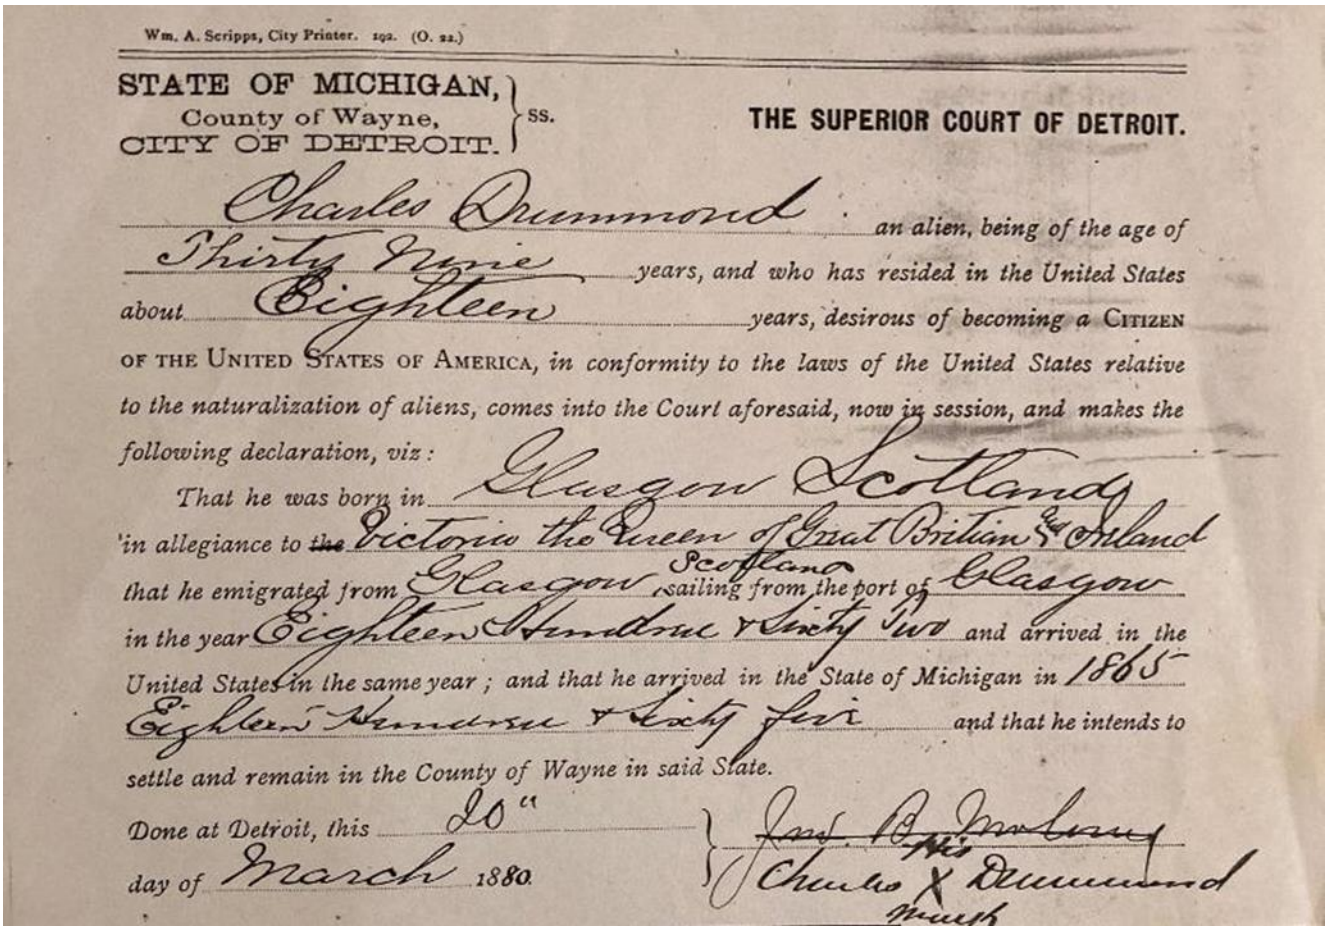
Charles applied for his First and Second Papers for citizenship at the Superior Court in Detroit, which at that time was located at the farm markets on Woodward Avenue near the Detroit River. These records are found in the Archives of Michigan in Lansing. They were filed in 1876 and 1880, both election years, and the character witness for the Second Papers was one Morris McCarthy, an Irish boilermaker. Mr. McCarthy is a character witness on more than one filing so I assume he may have worked for one of the local saloons in the Potomac, recruiting voters for upcoming elections. 1876 and 1880 were of course election years.

Charles Drummond appeared to come to America alone. His Second Papers say that he sailed from Glasgow in 1862 and arrived in the County of Wayne in 1865. This bolstered Aunt Rosemary's understanding that he came from Glasgow, Scotland.

The graphic on the next page is of Charles Drummond's Second Papers filed at the Superior Court in Detroit in March of 1880, stating that Charles arrived in the United States in 1862 and arrived in Wayne County, Michigan in 1865. He states that he is thirty-nine years old which contradicts most other documents. I do not believe that he knew when he was born.



Wm. A. Scripps, City Printer. 192. (O. 22.)

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Wayne, CITY OF DETROIT. } ss.

THE SUPERIOR COURT OF DETROIT.

Charles Drummond an alien, being of the age of Thirty Nine years, and who has resided in the United States about Eighteen years, desirous of becoming a CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in conformity to the laws of the United States relative to the naturalization of aliens, comes into the Court aforesaid, now in session, and makes the following declaration, viz:

That he was born in Glasgow Scotland in allegiance to the Victoria the Queen of Great Britian & Inland that he emigrated from Glasgow Scotland sailing from the port of Glasgow in the year Eighteen Hundred & Sixty Two and arrived in the United States in the same year; and that he arrived in the State of Michigan in 1865 Eighteen Hundred & Sixty five and that he intends to settle and remain in the County of Wayne in said State.

Done at Detroit, this 10th day of March 1880.

The Mystery Deepens

I searched high and low for records of other Drummonds in the United States or even Canada for this time frame, trying to find any Drummond families that looked promising for clues, but came up empty. I even went to the National Archives in Washington looking through boxes and boxes of port records for anything to no avail. At that time the New York Port records were unindexed and very large – I gave up on those.

In the 1900 Federal Census Charles is listed as a naturalized citizen, but that was on the census respondent's say-so. For immigrants in the middle Nineteenth Century it was often enough to have filed Second Papers to attain most of the rights and privileges that naturalization offers. He had filed papers though and he had said that he sailed in 1862 and arrived in Wayne County in 1865. 1865 was the year the Civil War ended; could he have been involved, perhaps as a Substitute?

Alas, I could find no service record in the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) for a Charles Drummond that would fit the facts.

I decided to try the 1890 Special Schedule for Surviving Soldiers etc. of the Civil War, which is practically all that remains of the 1890 Federal Census, most of which burned in a fire. If he served in the war this might be the only way to show that and this could be a major entrée to service records, unit histories, muster lists, etc.

The Soundex of the Special Schedule listed no Charles Drummond, but as every researcher knows all indices have errors so records must be examined themselves before one reaches a conclusion; I decided to search the enumeration district for any entry at the address of 223 Franklin Street. I found at that address one "Charles Grummond". Comparing the way Ds and Gs were represented in the Census handwriting it was indeed a G but there was no doubt in my mind that this was my great grandfather. In this census the list which links the census subject to an address is at the bottom of each page, and I knew from city directories that Charles Drummond would be living at 223 Franklin Street in 1890. Looking up the page I found the name in the line that would detail the unit information. I was shocked. The enumerator wrote that my great grandfather had been an army private in the Civil War fighting for the Confederate States of America!

REV. FRIEDRICH SCHMID'S MARRIAGE RECORDS, 1833-1875, ANN ARBOR, WASHTENAW COUNTY, MICHIGAN (PART THREE)

Translated & transcribed by John H. Schmale, and Rob Steward, 1986
Reviewed and updated by Rob and Cyndy Steward, 2023

The original records of Rev. Friedrich Schmid are currently housed and may be accessed in The Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. They also may be accessed online at https://deepblue.lib.umich.edu/handle/2027.42/99579 through M Library Deep Blue Documents: Record of Marriages, 1833-1871 (umich.edu) in PDF format. (Although labeled as ending in 1871 there are twenty-two entries in these records for the years 1872 to 1875).

Marriage records were not required to be registered with the Washtenaw County Clerk's Office until 1867 although some earlier records, back to 1832, are available at the county. The records at the county level usually appear by the date the records were turned in for recording, and in groups by the person who submitted the records for recording. (See Vol. 46, No.1, page 10 for a more detailed explanation concerning Rev. Schmid's records and the column format).

Rev. Schmid was not consistent in the way he spelled words, especially names. We have chosen to maintain the spelling Rev. Schmid used for the names of people. The records contain entries written in old German script and later, English script. In addition, while the marriages are listed chronologically by year, the pages in his records are not numbered.

By 1850, Rev. Schmid provides less information in his entries. He begins listing the names of the groom and bride; their ages in years; marital status; occasionally religion or occupation; and ends with the marriage date. We are extracting the information and placing it in a table format as follows:

Column 1: The chronological number of the marriage within each year
Column 2: SURNAME (in caps), first and middle name of the groom
Column 3: Groom's age in years
Column 4: additional information is the groom's (unless indicated by "Br" for the bride). It includes occupation; religion (other than protestant); and marital status (other than unmarried)
Column 5: Marriage date (DD/MM/YYYY format)
Column 6: SURNAME (in caps), first and middle name of the bride
Column 7: Bride's age in years

THE MUEHLIG FUNERAL HOME RECORDS,1882–1889, ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN

(Part Three)

Transcribed by Patty Baird

The Muehlig Funeral Home has been a part of Ann Arbor history since 1852, beginning at 103 S. Main, and moving to 403 South Fourth Ave in 1928. The house in which it is located was originally built as a residence, then became a hospital, and finally the funeral home.

This group of records from the 1882–1889 record book is published with the permission of the Bentley Library. Part Three, covering the years of 1886–1888, gives you a glimpse into the clientele, and causes of death in that era.

Some of the names were difficult to decipher, and the spelling was certainly not standardized, particularly the cause of death. We believe that "Woard" means "Ward".

MARRIAGE OF MATTHEW GRIFFIN AND MISS ELLA STEVENS, YPSILANTI, MICHIGAN, 1870

MARRIED.

In the Presbyterian Church, in Ypsilanti, May 26, by Rev. G. L. Foster, Matthew Griffin, Esq., of Cincinnati, Ohio, to Miss Ella, only daughter of P. Stevens, Esq., of Ypsilanti. The church was thronged–the "reception," too, was large–and the presents were rich, particularly the silver set, presented in appreciation of Ella's worth as a member of the choir. Somehow that choir seems particularly unfortunate in losing its members in this way. E. J. Mills, its efficient leader, expressed some discouragement upon the occasion, but was finally led to hope that what might seem to be against him, after all make it easy for him to keep a full choir. The Peninsular Courier and Family Visitant, 10 June 1870. p. 3, col. 2.
